
There are two main problems that you will encounter when experimenting with the Super Deepthroat program. These problems are indicated by a popup message along with the date and time of the problem. The first is that there may be a timing issue, which means that you have to take it out of your queue for now. The second problem is determining if what it is you are looking at has been fixed or if this was just known limitation due to bugs in the software itself.

If you get stuck on one of these problems, leave your question in our comments section below, which can be accessed through clicks on any posts or at our Reddit page. We will be able to let you know if there is anything that can be done to resolve the problem. If you are stuck on the date and time issue, it is most likely due to a timing issue. If it goes past January 20, 2535 10:44, then you are caught in an infinite loop for this date. If the program appears to freeze or lock up with no indication of time passing or motion of the character, then it is also a timing issue. This means that you have to take the program out of your queue until it is fixed by its developers. The program freezes when this happens during normal operation and does not present any further problems unless you attempt to move onto another game while still in this situation. If you get the "compiler" error, then your game is not able to download. Do not post that you are having this problem to the comments page, just take the game out of your queue until there is some word on the developer's website on how to fix it. It is possible that there may be no solution. The known bugs also cover some other situations like where the game may freeze for no reason or unexpected or force closes during regular operation of the software. This would likely happen before actually getting into any activities with characters using Super Deepthroat, but it has happened during actual gameplay in this program. The problem is indicated by a popup message before the actual freeze or force close. The first appears as a warning that the program is likely to freeze and asks you to confirm if you want to proceed or not. If you accept, then it will continue on as normal, but if you cancel then it will close out completely. If this happens, just take it out of your queue until further notice from the developers as there are plans for a major update soon. The other problem could be a bug that actually makes it so that the program will freeze or shut down while you are doing your thing with the character. This would occur during actual gameplay and would interrupt what was going on at the time. This means that you'll have to come back at a later time to resume your game, but the program will not update itself until then. Since it is still possible for this to happen during normal operation, there is no way of knowing if it will happen or not. The other thing that may occur is the seemingly random appearance of an extra popup window. This appears as a window displaying one of two messages: When you start the game, an unexplained error occurred and the game will now close out completely or When performing actions against characters containing females that are less than 10 years old, an error occurred and the game will now close out completely.
